

CARSON WELCOMES THE DEMOCRATS

Gov. Sparks And His Party Call On Us And Have A Good Time—Something About The Campaign—Dr. Patterson And His Mud That Won't Stick On

Last Saturday night in one of the greatest political gatherings ever held in this city the Democratic state candidates met the people of Carson City and talked straight from the shoulder about things that pertain to the interests and well being of the population of this commonwealth.

Statements made by the opposition were taken up seriatim and refuted. Mud throwing at the personnel of the Democratic ticket was washed off. Dignity and truth had a day in this city, and was welcomed by hundreds of fair minded persons that heard the remarkable utterances of one of the Republican speakers last Thursday night.

The candidates appeared in turn and were welcomed with cheers, but it remained for John Sparks to rouse the latent enthusiasm of his hundreds of friends when he rose to his full height and denied that he ever betrayed a friend or his oath of office.

Dr. Patterson stated from the same platform Thursday night that Governor Sparks was untrue to Governor Sadler on the fight for warden of the penitentiary. Governor Sparks showed that he was not only true to him, but that he went down to defeat in committee by voting for Sadler thirty times.

In defining the motive for the attack of Dr. Patterson, Governor Sparks stated that Patterson attempted to bribe him to allow a bill to be passed paying Sparks $100,000 for the Mayberry ranch, on which Patterson proposed to move the asylum. Sparks refused and Patterson resigned as superintendent of the asylum two weeks later.

Governor Sparks stated that he has been a friend of Patterson for years, and his voice broke when he referred to the treachery of a man whom he supposed to be his friend.

As the tirade of Patterson also included Attorney General Sweeney, Governor Sparks defended that official before he sat down.

George Bartlett rose to a question of privilege and stated that his opponent, O. J. Smith, had been declaring that he, Bartlett, had referred to the miners of the state as a "few measly prospectors," when talking about the law of eminent domain. Bartlett issued a challenge to Smith to appear in joint debate upon any platform in the state and to make good that assertion. He decried the attempt to foist upon the people of Nevada the national issues of Roosevelt and the Republican party, and declared that the real issues are Governor Sparks and his administration. He was cheered to the echo.

When J. G. Sweeney, candidate for supreme judge, arose, he was greeted with rapturous applause. If any doubt remained as to his popularity in Ormsby county, it was dispelled by the reception he received.

In a voice choking with emotion, Attorney Sweeney referred to Dr. Patterson's attack upon himself. Patterson stated Thursday night that it is a matter of common report that Attorney Sweeney has never been able to account for the campaign funds of the last campaign, of which committee he was chairman.

Attorney Sweeney declared that the statement is a false malignant, malicious lie, and defied Patterson and all others to prove to the contrary.

Patterson also charged Attorney Sweeney with unbecoming conduct in the presence of ladies, and said on one occasion ladies were compelled to leave the car in which Mr. Sweeney used such indecent language that it could not be borne. This also Mr. Sweeney branded as malicious lie.

An attempt to inject secular influence against Sweeney was a statement in which Patterson said that capital will not enter Utah because the judiciary is in the hands of one church—the Mormon. Attorney Sweeney declared his political and religious faith, and said that he apologized to no man for them.

As the able young lawyer finished his impassioned talk he referred to his life in Carson City, to his youth and to matters of his career with which his friends and neighbors are all familiar. He concluded by declaring that Dr. Patterson shall apologize to him for the statements made, and that he shall retract them if it is possible to make him do so.

The campaign of the democratic candidates so far has been a clean one, and they intend to keep it so. The meeting tonight is the first occasion they have taken to inject any personalities into it, and this was only in self defense, as Dr. Patterson's speech, one of the most scurrilous ever heard in this state, arraigned the men in such coarse fashion and with such little truth, it was necessary to reply to him.

No one in Carson City pretends to know what induced Patterson to come here and do such a thing. The republican candidates remained on the platform while he made the address, none of them raising a voice in protest, either because they could not disown Patterson or feared to do so. None of them would deny him publicly in Carson City and only one prominent republican in the city would do so—F. H. Norcross, Supreme Justice, who presided at the meeting. He disowned the speech and Patterson and said he would not have presided had he known what Patterson intended to do.

It remained for Senator Newlands to put the quietus on the charges of fraud and unbecoming conduct on the part of Governor Sparks and Attorney Sweeney.

Senator Newlands declared that he saw every account, handled by Mr. Sweeney during the last campaign as kept by Nate Roff, chairman of the executive committee, and he denied that any sums, great or small were unaccounted for.

He called Governor Sparks and others who had seen the accounts to witness his statement, and was greeted with cheers. He referred to the honorable service of Governor Sparks and asked if the people believed that Governor Sparks would stoop to do a dishonorable thing or to condone one.

He referred to the statements that he is a "czar" and a "dictator" and that he disciplined Judge Fitzgerald and Judge Belknap, by giving the exact history of both nominations.

He stated that when Belknap came up for nomination the fusion platform carried a plank favoring the eight-hour law, then on the statute books. Judge Belknap had decided against the law in the supreme court. It became necessary to either amend the platform to accommodate Belknap, thus stultifying the party interests of the people of the state, or to ask Belknap to change his attitude. Belknap could not do so, being on record by decision and it was necessary to name some other man whose views were in accordance with the platform and the demands of the people of the state on the eight-hour question. This was done. Senator Newlands stated he had no part in it other than had the other members of the convention, who saw clearly that it would be suicidal to elect Belknap at that time.

As to Justice Fitzgerald, he recited the history of the judge's well known campaign on the silver question, on which question Fitzgerald has written an able treatise. Judge Fitzgerald went to the Reno convention. The platform for adoption, which did not conform to the views of the platform committee as to the course of W. J. Bryan on the silver question was against the beliefs of Fitzgerald who could not bring himself to amend his views, being on record, and accordingly he left the convention before the time for nominations came about.

Senator Newlands declared that he was surprised when he heard that Fitzgerald had not been nominated, and that he telephoned from San Francisco to ask about it. He also said that he respects both Belknap and Fitzgerald, but that it is an insult to these gentlemen to say they have been "disciplined."

Senator Newlands made a plea for the human rights of the people as against the organized wealth and capital of the country, and stirred his audience with references to the distinguished services of W. J. Bryan. He was the last speaker and was cheered to the echo, especially when Governor Sparks arose and shook him by the hand.

If any question remained as to the status of the two state tickets in Ormsby county that question has been settled by the attack of Dr. Patterson on the candidates and the manly and dignified answer that was made that night. It is freely predicted that Patterson made more votes for the democratic ticket than would have been polled had he not spoken. Republicans are amazed at the party management that permitted it and affect to deplore now that the full effect is being felt. The meeting Thursday night was a cold chilly frost, made more so by the indecent tirade of Patterson.

The meeting tonight was a welcome home of men of known integrity, honor and probity, whose election, as far as Ormsby county is concerned seems assured.

The candidates declare they have had the greatest success throughout the state and that the meeting that night was only one of the many equally as good.

FESTIVAL AND DANCE

The ladies of the Catholic church, St. Theresa's parish, in this city, are making great preparations for their festival and dance which will take place October 31 at Armory Hall.

The best of music has been secured the floor will be in excellent condition and everything will be done to insure a delightful evening.

ATTENTION BAND MEMBERS

There will be no band practice tonight as several of the members are unable to be on hand.

A. L. SMITH, Leader.

Andy Russell and Wm. Nichols, two old timers from Washoe country are here as witnesses in a land suit of B. F. Leete.

JACK FROST ABROAD

The obtrusive and unwelcome Jack Frost arrived in all his power last evening, the consequence of his visit being several bursted water pipes and many irate heads of families.

The hydrants that supply the sprinkling cart sent up a beautiful spray that threatened to inundate the Chinese wash house opposite the Briggs House and to swamp the beautiful furniture that M. A. Downey has on display in front of his shop opposite the Arlington.

IN THE SUPREME COURT

In the Supreme Court this afternoon Attorney Mack of Washoe county appeared seeking justice in the case of John Hart, vs. George Spencer and wife. Hart foreclosed a mechanic's lien upon the property of the Spencers, his case being in the hands of Attorney Mack. The defendants hired Messrs. Cheney and Massey to defend the case. Before the case came to court, the plaintiff and defendants met and settled the case out of court, thus defrauding the plaintiff's attorney out of his fees, as well as some expense occurred in serving the papers upon the defendants.

UNITED STATES COURT

Papers were filed this morning with T. J. Edwards, clerk of the U. S. district and circuit court, in the case of A. M. D'Arcy, a resident of Denver, Colorado, and the Poorless Bullfrog Mining Co. vs. the Tramp Consolidated Mining Co. The complaint is on an adverse claim and the scene of the litigation is in Bullfrog.

The case of the Chairman Mining and Electric Company versus the Nevada Consolidated Copper Company, (Both in White Pine county, Nevada) was removed from the State court to the U. S. Circuit court.

Pursuant to written orders from Judge DeHaven the U. S. district court was adjourned until November 7 at 2 p. m. and the U. S. circuit court until November 5 at the same hour.

Miss Avery Yerington returned this morning from a trip to Alaska.

C. L. Knox, one of the Ramsey prospective millionaires, is registered at the Arlington.

G. W. McCabe arrived this morning from San Francisco and has accommodations at the Arlington.

A. E. Cheney, the well known attorney of Reno, arrived this morning.

W. E. Evans, Mrs. J. L. Mench and Miss Winifred Eiche drove over from Reno yesterday morning and spent the day here, the guests of J. L. Mench.

B. F. Leete and Nott Leete were among the arrivals from Reno this morning.

Guy Spencer came into town on the morning train. He has all the airs of a prosperous prospector.

Mrs. Julia Cowan is making additions to her lodging house in Ramsey.

Attorney Chas. L. Knox came up from Reno this morning on legal business connected with his Ramsey clients.

Geo. Wingfield of Goldfield is in this city for a few days.

The quotations for Virginia City mining stocks, as given in a Carson City paper published June 18th, 1875, state that on that day Consolidated Virginia sold for $375 per share; today it is 86 cents. Ophir brought $47.75, today it calls for $2.50. Mexican was $17.75, but today you can get only 67 cents for it.

PRESBYTERIAN TEA

On Thursday afternoon, October 25, from 2 to 5 o'clock, Mrs. J. P. Meder, Mrs. W. H. Keyser and Mrs. Harry McCreary will entertain the ladies of this city with a tea in the lecture room of the Presbyterian church.

The ladies wish especially to make this tea an informal affair and one at which every guest shall feel at liberty to make herself at home and enjoy the afternoon.

Take your knitting, your sewing, or your Christmas work, pretend that you are at an old fashioned sewing bee and do not depend upon others to furnish the enjoyment of the afternoon, but, in your happiest vein, tell all the pleasant things you know, leaving behind you the household cares and worries of the day.

BOUND FOR THE VALLEY

This morning the auto line between this city and Gardnerville was put to the test to furnish transportation for the democratic candidates, who went up to enlighten the valleyites regarding the coming election.

The procession was an interesting one and the candidates started out in glee, the weather having been apparently made to order for them and, although the air was bracing, there was enough warmth in it to make even the most worn out man take heart again. The trip has been a hard one on the candidates and they will hail with joy the morning of November 6 as that will mean the cessation of campaigning and the settling down to conventional work once more.
